

WILSON ORDERS ACTION AGAINST N. H. DIRECTORS

Demands Criminal Suit and Dissolution of Alleged Combination.

CHARGE OF BAD FAITH

Scores Board for Failure to Stand by Agreement with Government.

M'REYNOLDS CONDEMNNS I. C. C.

Claims by Allowing Mellen to Testify
Commission Embarrassed Case by Furnishing Immunity Grounds.

By JOSEPH P. ANNIN.

President Wilson yesterday directed Attorney General McKendree to institute criminal proceedings against the directors of the New Haven and a civil suit to dissolve the alleged combination in restraint of trade.

The civil suit will be filed within a few days. The criminal proceedings probably will be before the Federal grand jury in New York City.

In a letter to the President, given out with the President's letter to the Attorney General, the latter complains that the Interstate Commerce Commission has embarrassed in advance any criminal action which the Department of Justice may institute against responsible directors of the New Haven. He recites that over the protest of the department, the commission placed men like former President Mellen on the stand, thereby offering them grounds for claiming immunity from criminal prosecution.

In directing immediate action, the President concurs in the view of his Attorney General that the New Haven directors have acted in bad faith with the government; that their eleventh hour refusal to abide by their recent agreement with the Department of Justice is based upon a nonessential technicality and reflects upon the sincerity of their motives in seeking a peaceable solution.

The President's Letter.

In the following letter, the President directs the Attorney General to commence civil and criminal proceedings: "I have your letter of today, enclosing a copy of your letter of July 9 to Mr. J. H. Hustis, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, which together disclose the failure of the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company to comply with the terms of the settlement proposed by them and accepted by us in the matter of their railroad holdings. Their final decision in this matter causes me the deepest surprise and regret. Their failure, upon so slight a pretext, to carry out an agreement so deliberately and solemnly entered into and which was manifestly in the common interest, is to me inexplicable and entirely without justification.

"You have been kind enough to keep me fully informed of every step the department took in this matter, and the action of the department has throughout met with my entire approval. It was just, reasonable, and efficient. It should have resulted in avoiding what must now be done.

"In the circumstances the course you propose is the only one the government can pursue. I therefore request and direct that a proceeding in equity be filed, seeking the dissolution of the unlawful monopoly of transportation facilities in New England now sought to be maintained by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, and that the criminal aspects of the case be laid before a grand jury.

"With much regard, sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Flinkest of Technicians.

The Attorney General declares that the refusal to abide by the agreement with the government to dispose of the stock of the Boston and Maine because the Massachusetts legislature, in granting the New Haven permission to dispose of this stock, retains the right to purchase it at a fair valuation, is the flinkest of technicalities, because the Commonwealth of Massachusetts always has retained the right to purchase the stock of the holding company organized in 1909 by the New Haven to take over control of the Boston and Maine.

In his letter to the President, the Attorney General declares that out of regard for economic conditions in New England and a desire to protect the small investor in New Haven stock, from unnecessary loss, he had been willing to seek a ground for agreement and settlement with the New Haven directors and stockholders, in so far as the civil aspects of the case were concerned. Referring to the criminal aspects, however, he complains bitterly of the Interstate Commerce Commission's course in placing certain New Haven directors on the stand in the recent investigation. He wrote the President:

"The criminal aspect of the case have been kept constantly in mind; much data bearing thereon was collected months ago, and care has been exercised to permit nothing which might interfere with proper prosecution at the appropriate time. We have not held out the slightest

MISS WILSON TENNIS VICTOR.

She and Partner Win Hotly Contested Doubles Match.

St. Roudsburg, Pa., July 21.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, with Miss Claire Patton of Vassar, daughter of a prominent physician of New York City won a hotly contested tennis match in doubles today against Mrs. E. K. Elmore of Washington, D. C., and Miss Kate Bonner of New York, at Mount Pocono with scores 6-4, 3-6, 9-7.

The deciding match was 4-1 in favor of Miss Bonner and Mrs. Elmore, but by hard playing the score was brought to 4-3 and 4-4. Both sides had 7 all on the deciding set when Miss Wilson and Miss Patton forged ahead.

A large number of New York and Philadelphia society people were present and all of them agreed that the playing of the President's daughter was the feature of the match.

CLOUDS SCATTER FOR HOME RULE

Conferees Depart from Palace
Smiling After Discussing Possible Compromise.

CARGO OF RIFLES SEIZED

Prospects Seem to Be Brighter for Peaceful Agreement Than Ever Before.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, July 21.—A happy augury for the success of the home rule conference was drawn from the expressions on the faces of the eight statesmen as they left Buckingham Palace today after the first meeting. Though looking gloomy when assembling for the conference, every countenance bore a bright smile when the session ended.

A great crowd, including many Americans, gathered at the palace gates and noted this good omen, which has provided a cause for a more optimistic feeling in London, although in Ireland both sides still maintain an uncompromising attitude, distrustful of the probable bargaining under the royal roof.

Regarding the King's attitude the Standard publishes an inspired statement denying the rumor that the King has threatened to withhold assent to the home rule bill unless it is accompanied by the amending bill. It declares the suggestion unwarrantable and denies that his majesty stated that he would withhold consent to the home rule measure under any conditions whatever.

King's Speech Irritates.
It is added that the King was influenced in calling the conference by his desire to maintain peace in Ireland, and also by receipt of a petition sent him personally, "a course never before adopted since he has been King and more numerous signed than any other petition for any purpose has even been."

There is a good deal of irritation in the Liberal circles caused by the terms of the King's speech to the conference, which, it is understood, his majesty composed himself. The particular passage that gives offense is that suggesting that "the most responsible and sober-minded" of the King's subjects for months past have talked "civil war."

This is an obvious reference to the Unionists, it is pointed out. However, constitutional doctrine stringently lays down that the ministry must be identified with the monarch on matters of policy.

London, Ireland, July 21.—On the eve of King George's Irish peace party, customs officers early today boarded a steam yacht off this port and seized 3,000 rifles consigned to the Nationalist volunteers.

Gun running operations still are being carried on by both Nationalists and Ulster Unionists.

MRS. LEWIS FORGETS; USHERS UNDIGNIFIED; "JIM HAM" IN AGAIN

Spoils Effort to Bury in Oblivion Senate
Beau Brummel's Nickname
When She Writes "James."

The interdiction pronounced by Senator Lewis, of Illinois, against the use of his original Christian name of "James," just because the irreverent were disposed to shorten his dignified cognomen from James Hamilton to "Jim Ham," is now effective throughout the Capitol Senate document, the Congressional Directory, the Record, everywhere that the name of the Beau Brummel of Democracy appears it is now officially "Senator Hamilton Lewis."

But when it came to impressing the necessity for the entailment upon the members of his own family, the great man flinched. Mrs. Lewis returned to Washington Monday night from a short Western trip. She arrived at the hotel where the Lewis family makes its home and across the register in a clear, heavy-lined angular hand they appeared this morning:

"Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Chicago, Ill."

REBEL ENVOYS AT WHITE HOUSE

President Wilson for First Time Officially Greets Carranza Representatives.

PILOTED BY MR. BRYAN

Recognition of Revolutionaries Believed Near, Following Session in Executive Mansion.

President Wilson yesterday for the first time received at the White House representatives of Gen. Carranza and the constitutional revolutionaries in Mexico. His action in granting this measure of recognition to the revolutionists at this time caused considerable comment.

The men received were Fernando Iglesias Calderon, the personal representative of Carranza, and Secretary Urrutia, of the constitutionalist agency in Washington. They were taken to the White House at 6 o'clock last evening by Secretary of State Bryan. They remained but a few minutes, and when they came out Secretary Bryan attempted to make a mystery of the occasion and declined to state the identity of the President's visitors.

Explains His Position.

It is understood that the President took advantage of the opportunity to re-impress upon the minds of the Carranza representatives the position of the United States now that the constitutionalists are about to come into supreme power in Mexico. Senor Calderon is stated to be the minister of foreign affairs in the Carranza cabinet. Consequently it was considered most important by the administration that the man upon whom is likely to fall the chief burden of the foreign complications with which the constitutionalist leaders are confronted should learn directly the views of this government.

One of the matters which the President and Secretary Bryan are understood to have impressed upon Senor Calderon as of the most urgent importance from Washington's point of view is the complaint of France regarding the alleged killing of two members of the order of Christian Brothers by orders of Gen. Villa at Zacatecas. The President made it clear that the United States is most earnestly desirous that the constitutionalists adopt every necessary measure to prevent the recurrence of such outrages when they take over the government and capital of all Mexico.

Secretary of State Bryan last night received a message from Mr. Sullivan, representative of the United States, near Carranza, announcing that Carranza had proclaimed a cessation of hostilities pending the discussions with the Carranza delegates which are to take place at Saltillo.

TO STAY IN VERA CRUZ.

Newspaper Man to Remain Pending "Ley de Fianza" Probe.

Secretary of War Garrison yesterday announced that Fred L. Boalt, correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, would be permitted to remain at Vera Cruz until it had been determined whether or not Ensign W. A. Richardson had told Boalt that the law of flight had been applied to Mexican prisoners during the occupation of Vera Cruz. Boalt claimed in defense of an article he wrote for publication in the United States that Richardson had told him prisoners were shot down under the pretext that they were trying to escape. A court of inquiry at Vera Cruz reached the conclusion that neither Richardson nor any other naval officer had applied the ley de fianza to Mexican prisoners, but officials here are not yet informed as to whether it was determined whether Richardson informed Boalt that it had been done. This, it is expected, will be shown in the copy of the proceedings of the court of inquiry, which have been mailed by Admiral Badger, and are expected here in a few days.

CAPITAL MAN'S HOME BURNED.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Asbury Park, N. J., July 21.—Fire caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove in the Ocean Grove home of Paul Richmond of Washington, D. C., this afternoon swept through the bungalow section of the resort, destroying five other houses. A strong wind was blowing and for a time the entire section was threatened. Mr. Richmond is a government employee at Washington. Members of his family escaped but were unable to save any of their effects. The loss is $10,000.

NEW REVOLUTION GROWS.

More Mexican Leaders Promise to Resist Carranza.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Vera Cruz, July 21.—A dozen or more generals in the Mexican Federal army have pledged themselves to start a revolution against Carranza when the constitutionalists get into Mexico City. It was said here today by Col. Enrique Orozco. Among these generals are Pascual Orozco, Jose Ynes Salazar, Antonio Rojas, Marcelo Caraveo, and Benjamin Arguedo.

These generals fear assassination if they surrender to the constitutionalists and for that reason will refuse to recognize the central government when the rebels control it.

The opinion is freely expressed here by those who know the true inwardness of the Mexican situation, that Carranza's hardest task is still ahead of him.

HUSBAND'S CRIME AVERTS DIVORCE

Wife of Soldier, Who Killed
Woman and Self, Was Saving
Up for Lawyer.

SCRIMPED FROM SALARY

Attorney Calls at Store to Tell Her L. W. Newcomb Shot Mrs. Roberts and Committed Suicide.

To the tragedy, in which Lee W. Newcomb, a soldier, murdered Mrs. Bessie McCormick Roberts early yesterday at 211 Seventh street southwest, and then shot himself to death, the trite old saying, "This is an ill wind that blows no good," may be applied. It was learned last night that Newcomb had a wife, who was gathering out of her meager earnings a fund with which to procure a divorce from her husband.

Newcomb's wife left him more than a year ago on account of his cruelty, selfishness and infidelity. To support herself she obtained a position as saleswoman in a Seventh street department store and began to save money so that she might pay a lawyer to get her divorced from her husband.

Saved to Pay Lawyer.
Tall, comely and capable, she got along well enough, but it was only by the most stringent economy that she was able to lay by a few dollars each week toward the time when she could bring an action for divorce.

Yesterday about noon Mrs. Newcomb was attending to the wants of a customer when her lawyer entered the department store and called her aside.

"Your husband's dead," said the lawyer, perhaps sadly. Killed a Mrs. Roberts over on Seventh street and then committed suicide."

Mrs. Newcomb started with astonishment and dismay, and then, as though on second thought, she emitted a deep sigh of relief. No longer need she skimp desperately in order to build up a divorce fund. The news had lifted a great burden from her. For the rest of the day, while she went about her work as if nothing unusual had happened to her, Mrs. Newcomb managed to refrain from telling anybody that she was the wife of the man who had been the chief principal in a sordid tragedy which had occurred early in the morning. But as she was leaving the store last evening she confided to a few of her intimates that, though she had always been sorry for her husband, she simply couldn't feel very sad over his death.

Newcomb, who was a private in Company A, Engineer Corps, stationed at Washington Barracks, killed Mrs. Roberts because she had permitted another man to escort her home from a beer garden.

At the inquest, conducted by Coroner Nevitt, Mrs. Ethel Harbin, who had been living with Mrs. Roberts, said she and Mrs. Roberts, who was separated from her husband, went to the beer garden early Monday night, meeting J. E. Fields, a member of Newcomb's company. They left the garden at 11:25 and were joined by Charles Scott. Reaching the apartment, the women went to the dining-room, while Scott and Fields went across the street for beer. Then Mrs. Harbin, hearing a noise, found Newcomb in the closet. Scott and Fields returned with the beer, and the five sat around the table drinking it. Scott left about 1:30 o'clock, and shortly after this Newcomb began quarrelling with Mrs. Roberts. The quarrel ended with the shooting of her and himself.

MRS. HARRIS IS DENIED SLICE OF BIG ESTATE

Pension Office Clerk Loses Suit for $200,000 Against Heirs of Former Representative Baker.

HAD STACK OF BILLETTS DOUX

Concord, N. H., July 21.—The suit of Mrs. Magnolia Virginia Augusta Hudson Harris, of Washington, D. C., for $200,000 against the estate of the late Henry Baker, former Representative of this city, was dismissed today.

Mrs. Harris is a middle-aged clerk in the Pension Office. The suit was begun here in the spring of 1912 shortly after the Baker will was filed here for probate. The real estate of the decedent here then was valued at $100,000.

A stack of love letters purporting to have been signed by Mr. Baker and addressed to "My Dear Magnolia" was exhibited by the plaintiff, Mrs. Harris, who is a daughter of a former governor of Louisiana, alleged in the papers filed in court that the former Representative made love to her and promised to leave her $200,000 in his will. Entirely ignored in that instrument, she sought to recover the full amount. For technical reasons the suit here was withdrawn and brought anew in Concord.

Mrs. Harris could not be located last night. She recently lived a week at 1141 Twelfth street northwest.

SINCE WILSON VISIT LOUISIANA "BOSS" PAYS DOUBLE TAXES

President's Sojourn on Gulf Coast
Has Boomed Assessments—Col.
Ewing a Victim.

Col. Robert Ewing, Democratic national committeeman from Louisiana, is beginning to appreciate the fact that entertaining Presidents of the United States has its disadvantages.

The genial colonel owns a handsome seashore home on the Gulf of Mexico, near where President Wilson spent his holiday last midwinter. The coming of the President to the then little known Gulf coast has served to impress the dwellers along that so-called "Amelican Riviera" with the belief that one of these days it is going to be the midwinter social center of the Western world.

In consequence the assessors of Harrison county are taking advantage of their opportunities. They have assessed Col. Ewing's winter abode just double the tax rate of a year ago, before the President's visit. But the colonel is willing to "stand the gaff," if the President will consent to go to Mississippi again.

WOMAN SAVES 35 HORSES FROM FIRE

Mrs. William Chambers Leads Animals to Safety from Husband's Blazing Stable.

COFFINS BURNED; LOSS, $10,000

But for the presence of mind of Mrs. William Chambers, thirty-five horses would have been burned to death in a three-alarm fire which started shortly before 1 o'clock in the rear of the second floor of a two-story structure at 127 R street northwest and spread to an adjoining lively stable.

The blaze did damage estimated at $10,000, partly covered by insurance. Owing to the late hour and the noise by the fire apparatus, excitement among the neighborhood verged on a panic. Scores of men, women, and children, scantily dressed, ran to the street to watch the flames subside the flames.

The building is used by William Chambers for the storing of undertaking supplies, hay and grain. Chambers also is proprietor of the adjoining lively stable. The fire was discovered by an aged watchman, Anthony Sewell, who turned in the first alarm. Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, who live near by, hurried to the scene, and the young woman at once ran into the stable, which by this time was enveloped in flames. With the aid of her husband, she led the horses, one by one, to safety.

There were two carloads of oats and an equal quantity of hay stored on the ground floor and about $600 damage was done to this by water. About thirty gas-kets were on the second floor. They were insured. Several carriages also were burned.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Cumberland, Md., July 21.—The authorities fear the lynching, if caught, of an unidentified negro about forty years old who assaulted Mrs. Conrad Metzger, wife of a brewmaster, at her home in Columbia avenue, North Cumberland, this morning.

Her husband found her on the floor unconscious. She was so badly injured that the services of several physicians were necessary.

The negro asked for food, and as she was cutting a slice of bread he knocked her down.

One negro was arrested, but Mrs. Metzger failed to identify him.

Intense feeling has been aroused. A posse with bloodhounds is searching for the assailant.

U. S. ATTACHE KNOCKS OFF OFFICIAL'S HAT

Secretary of Legation in Norway, It Is Reported, Has Tilt with Harbor-master at Christiania.

REPRIMAND MAY BE A RESULT

Although no official report has been received by the State Department, word reached Washington yesterday of a quarrel between Franklin M. Gunther, secretary of the American legation in Norway, and the harbor master of Christiania, during which the American official is said to have knocked off the hat of the Norwegian official.

It was said last night that neither through the legation nor through the Norwegian Minister here had anything been heard of the incident. It was rumored that if it was officially brought to the attention of this government, and the facts found to be as stated, Mr. Gunther probably would be in for a reprimand.

Gunther entered the diplomatic service in August, 1908, when he was appointed third secretary of the Embassy at Paris. He has since served at the Department of State, at Haragu, Nicaragua, at Lisbon, at Rio de Janeiro, and at Christiania. He is a native of New York, where he was born in 1883, and is a graduate of Harvard University. His legal residence is at Amherst, Va.

Plates, engravings, etc., from which millions of notes were printed here for the Mexican constitutionalists, were seized yesterday by a deputy United States marshal on a replevin suit filed by Felicitas Villareal, subsecretary of the treasury in Gen. Carranza's cabinet.

A few weeks ago Villareal sued in the District Supreme Court to prevent the rebel money from being diverted to Villa. The money was subsequently traced to El Paso, Tex., and recovered. Norris Peters Company refused to surrender the plates, etc., to Villareal, hence the suit. Title to the things will be thrashed out in court.
